This week the UMD MPIRG Student Organization folks will stop by for a few minutes on Monday.

Then we’ll continue to have a look at the basic analytic, theoretical, methodological, and historical framework for the course, moving towards the beginning of a mini-series of videos focusing on pioneers of Culture and Personality Studies—W.H.R. Rivers and Margaret Mead—that begins next week.

Whether you’re taking notes, watching the videos, or reading the text and related materials, keep in mind that the exams are open-book tests—so bear in mind that you do not have to memorize a lot of names, dates, and isolated facts. Familiarize yourself with the materials, but don't spend too much time trying to commit the details to memory.

(If you haven't read the materials about the Culture and Personality exams yet, it might be a good idea to do that before too long. You can find that information at http://www.d.umn.edu/cla/faculty/troufs/anth4616/cpexams.html.)

For this week—for the entire semester, for that matter—focus on the ideas and main concepts and differing points of view.

Be sure to check the details of the activities and assignments for the week on your Moodle HomePage. This week take the Selective Attention Tests in Preparation for Watching Video Series, and Our Later Discussion of Perception. (Be sure to take both tests.)

Read and follow the directions carefully.
