Welcome back to Spring Semester. I hope you had a grand Spring Break.

This week we’ll continue with our “Real People . . . Real Places . . .” series, starting with where you and your personality fit into your family. We’ll start off Monday with Birth Order and Its Effects. And if all goes as “normal” you’ll be surprised at how much of your personality is said to be part of your birth order.

Having returned from the magical reality Spring Break we witness still another reality, the psychological world of anthropological research.

With a classic way of learning about anthropological research reality we’re going to have a go at designing a comparative research project aimed at trying to find out the effects of birth order on adult personality, including the effect of birth order on persons who live in special cultural worlds.
You’ll meet Jani Farrell-Roberts, a friend best known world-wide for her international investigative work on “Blood Diamonds,” but who is also a Druid priestess. She was also formerly a Jesuit priest in the Roman Catholic Church. Jani’s the father of two daughters.

This week, briefly, we’ll also review “Culturally Constituted Behavioral Environments” (CCBE) in general, starting off with the Yanomamö and their Magical Death.

Next week we’ll continue on our “Real People . . . Real Places . . .” tour with a visit with N!ai, a zhun/twasi woman in her mid-thirties who will talk about her arranged marriage to /Gunda—at the age of eight. From Africa we’ll travel to Southeast Asia to visit a small group of Malaysian individuals living in their own special psychological world, people with “Latah”—a psychological-biophysical state brought on by people poking a Latah individual, and by other startling events.

Wednesday of this week we’ll continue on our “Real People . . . Real Places . . .” venture and have a look at Yanomamö Magical Death, and Children’s Magical Death . . . and witness still another reality, with a familiar way of learning about that reality. The Yanomamö studies were done by Napoleon A. Chagnon, featured in The New York Times . . .

If you took the exam the results are in your Moodle Gradebook (check the upper left-hand corner of your Moodle HomePage under “Administration”).

Profs “grading” exams is a lot like an ump in Major League Baseball calling balls and strikes. The Major League rules are clear [http://www.d.umn.edu/cla/faculty/troufs/anth4616/cpgrades.html#strikezone] as are the stated criteria for written projects and exams [http://www.d.umn.edu/cla/faculty/troufs/anth4616/cpgrades.html].

But, in the end, they are both human judgments.

The biggest difference between a Major League Umpire calling balls and strikes and a professor calling a grade is that you get ejected from the baseball game if you are argue balls and strikes (see Section 9.02 Official Baseball Rules [http://mlb.mlb.com/mlb/official_info/official_rules/foreword.jsp] is that one should really question the prof if they didn’t like the call, and that is especially true for midterm exams as one can often learn quite a bit that is helpful on the final by looking over and discussing a midterm exam.

Maybe a better analogy would be judging Olympic Figure Skating, or Gymnastics, or Ski Jumping, Diving and the like . . . [http://www.d.umn.edu/cla/faculty/troufs/anth4616/cpgrades.html#gymnastics].
If your style is to look at charts, the grading “chart” is at

So if, for whatever reason, you didn’t like “the call,” e-mail or stop in.

Please pay attention to what the numbers mean in terms of the final course letter grade:

Numerical Example:
\frac{18}{20} + \frac{93}{100} + \frac{372}{400} = \frac{483}{520} = 92.9\% = A
\]
(the highest grade the UM system allows)

EXTRA CREDIT

If you didn’t do quite as well as you might have liked on the Midterm Exam, or if you did better than you even hoped on the Midterm exam but want to “bank” some insurance points for your final course grade, think about doing one (or even two—one of each) of the optional extra credit papers.

There are two Extra Credit options: (A) a case study, and/or (B) a review of a lecture or an approved film (other than one of the films we see in class). For the review option you may also compare two or more films. (Remember from Week 1, one of the main features of anthropology is that it is comparative?)

Details on the extra credit are on-line at <http://www.d.umn.edu/cla/faculty/troufs/anth3635/extra_credit/ceextracredit.html>
A major part of this course is your research project—not just for the points, but because researching a topic you are interested in and presenting your findings to others, and then writing the results up as a formal paper, is one of the best ways to learn things. (Lectures, as it turns out, research suggests, are one of the worst ways—keeping in mind that one must separate “learning” from the “perception of learning.”) So this week be sure to spend some time working on your Paper and Presentation. (Remember that your Presentation is a “work in progress” report on your paper.)

If I can be of help with your project, please let me know.

For this week our course developer has prepared an on-line survey of the class. Please help us by filling it out honestly, and promptly. Your views are very important in the future development of Culture and Personality.

Take the Student Survey:

We greatly appreciate your participation in the course survey. If you didn’t fill the Student Survey out yet, please do that (with the “Activities” for Week 8). In order for it to be most useful, it’s 100% anonymous.

The survey is part of our “Activities” of the week.

Rate and Rank the Films / Videos

The survey and the in-class research design project is our main “Activities” of the week, but please also rate the video’s . . .

- Response to the film Birth Order and Its Effects (Due by the end of Week 9—Saturday, 19 March 2016; Your Name Will Be Logged) Feedback

- Response to the films Magical Death and Children's Magical Death (Due by the end of Week 9—Saturday, 19 March 2016; Your Name Will Be Logged) Feedback

Share your ideas with others. It’s always a good idea to share your ideas with others. You can discuss them on-line with the others in class. And you should do that.

Public Service Announcement:

No class on Wednesday, 30 March 2016

I will be at the Applied Anthropology Meetings in Vancouver, B.C.

Your (1) Topics and (2) Readings and (3) Assignments and Activities listings are available in the Week 9 Block of your Moodle folder.

In the meantime, if you have any general or specific questions, please let me know mourfs@d.umn.edu.

Best Regards,

Tim Roufs
