Did You Know or Have You Thought About?

Publicly traded stocks or bonds make excellent gifts and can easily be transferred to UMD. If the securities have appreciated, you not only receive the benefit of the full fair market value as a charitable income tax deduction, you also avoid capital gains tax if you have owned the securities for more than one year.

A bequest in a will or trust stipulates that the entire amount or a percentage of your estate be given to the university after your lifetime. Your bequest may be designated to a specific college, school or program, to a faculty endowment or scholarships, or it may be unrestricted and used where needed most. Gifts from your estate to UMD are exempt from estate tax.

Retirement fund assets would be heavily taxed if given to an individual. After your lifetime, the remainder of your retirement fund can be assigned to UMD as an unrestricted gift or designated for a college, school, program, faculty endowment or student scholarships.

Thank you for your gift.
