

The Instructional Development Service Presents.....

Fall 2009 Early Career Workshop Series on Teaching and Learning

All faculty face the challenge of balancing teaching, research and service, and finding that balance can be particularly daunting for early career faculty who may have little experience in one or more of these areas. Giving faculty the necessary teaching tools and support at the outset of their careers not only enhances their teaching and their students' learning, it also helps them focus their energies more effectively on their research, decreasing the stress that accompanies the early years of a faculty career.

To help give our early career faculty the chance to excel in all they do, the Instructional Development Service (IDS) offers the Early Career Workshop Series to help hone teaching, curriculum planning, and student and teaching assessment skills every semester.

All faculty and TAs who are instructors of record are welcome, but new faculty will be given priority.

All sessions meet on Friday in KSC 333 from 12-2:00 pm

- |                                   |          |
|-----------------------------------|----------|
| 1. Starting Out on the Right Foot | 9/18/09  |
| 2. Managing Classroom Dynamics    | 10/2/09  |
| 3. Backward Course Design         | 10/16/09 |
| 4. Active Learning Strategies     | 11/06/09 |
| 5. Student Assessment             | 11/20/09 |
| 6. Teaching Assessment            | 12/2/09  |
| 7. Wrap Up Session                | 12/11/09 |

To register, please contact Shelley Smith at ssmith3@d.umn.edu or x7715