Why Is Tuition So High At UMD?

by
Dick Green

Department of Mathematics and Statistics, UMD

Abstract: Tuition at UMD is now 55 times as high as it was in 1960, when I was a student here. Adjusted for inflation, tuition is seven times as high as it was in 1960. In this talk I will demonstrate the fact of tuition increase and I will discuss some of its causes and consequences. I will give three reasons why tuition at UMD should be no more than one-third of what it is now. I will also discuss some recent literature on the management and funding of American higher education, including the radical, democratic idea that public colleges and universities should be tuition-free.

Thursday, November 7, 2013
3:00 PM – 4:00 PM
CHEM 150
EVERYONE IS WELCOME

The University of Minnesota Duluth is an equal opportunity educator and employer.