About the Program

The School of Social Work of Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, is offering a study abroad program to Israel in January of 2010 to study management practices and direct services of governmental institutions and Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO's). The program will be based at Ben Gurion University of the Negev in Beer Sheva, and will include travel to Eilat and Jerusalem, among other places. Concentrating on organizational and community issues in the human and social services and cultural diversity, the program will include field visits to governmental and non-governmental organizations in Beer Sheva, Arad, Eilat and Jerusalem, among others.

Course of Study

Upon completion of the study tour and the required assignments, participants will receive 3-course credits from Rutgers University. Participants who choose not to receive academic credit may earn Continuing Education hours. Transcripts will not be released until all financial obligations related to the course are met.

Highlights Winter 2010

Opportunities will be available for travel to Petra, Jordan, as well as recreational attractions in Eilat. Travel to Jerusalem will include stops at Masada and the Dead Sea. In Jerusalem visits will include the Old City, the Western Wall, the Dome on the Rock/Temple Mount, the Holocaust Museum, Yad Vashem and the Markets.

Housing and Meals

Participants will stay in double occupancy hostels and university housing throughout the study tour. Some of the stays include scheduled meals; otherwise, participants will enjoy freedom to dine out and try a variety of ethnic dishes at their own expense.

Administration

Rutgers Study Abroad in Israel will be administered by the Rutgers University School of Social Work and the Rutgers Study Abroad office. This course will be taught by the following Rutgers University School of Social Work faculty: Richard Edwards, PhD, Dean and Professor II, Patricia Findley, D.P.H, Assistant Professor and Bert J. Goldberg, MSW, Instructor.

The responsibility of Rutgers Study Abroad ends on the departure date. Students then become responsible for their own travel and living arrangements.
