Characteristics of a Healthy Global System

- System works to promote social and economic justice worldwide
- Promotes human well-being
- Development and practice of diverse cultures
- Members have a feeling of global interconnectedness
- Non-discriminatory social and economic systems
- Members feel and have a respect for all persons
- Mutual exchange of ideas, social and cultural, between members
- Members have full rights and a responsibility to participate
- The society is stable, safe and just
- Promotion and protection of human rights for all members
- Equality and equity between all members
- All members have access to resources to fulfill needs
- All members have access to healthcare and education
- Members promote eradicating poverty
- All members feel a sense of partnership
- Members have a sense of nationality
- Leaders are aware of and actively work for members needs
- Society continues to grow in a healthy manner
- Members feel a sense of responsibility and actively care for their environment

Submitted by Christina Berke
November 17, 2004