How to Give a TERRIBLE PowerPoint Presentation

- Put as much stuff on one slide as possible.
  - But there’s so much to say!
  - And what about those ugly open spaces?

- Make sure it all appears at once.
  - All the data that’s fit to print.

- Use a hard-to-read font.
  - Huh? How can a font be hard to read?
  - So, what fonts are easy to read?

- Make sure the text doesn't stand out from the background.
  - But pastels show my sensitive nature....

- Don't include any pictures or other media.
  - Just the facts, Ma’am.

- Make sure you read each line to your audience.
  - They seem kinda dumb....

- Don't worry about content; just impress your audience with special effects.
  - May the force be with you. If it worked for George Lucas, it can work for me.

1. Modified from L. Shannon, 2007