Questions? Comments?
1. General Comments for the Week

This week we discuss some questions about BabaKiueria (from last week).

And as we get ready to celebrate the Fourth of July in America we venture out to visit with then twelve-year-old Chai Thao and listen to her tell about her Hmong family in neighboring Appleton, Wisconsin, and what it’s like to grow up in a Hmong shaman’s family as an “American” pre-teen.

Our In-the-News this week also focuses on “America”, actually the U.S.A. as “America” actually includes everything from the North Pole (the magnetic version of which is actually moving closer to Russia) to Tierra del Fuego at the tip of the South American continent.

Your contributed question for the Midterm Exam is due on Wednesday.
And then we catch up, and prepare for the Midterm Exam next week.

Topping off the week, before you’re off to celebrate the Fourth of July, turn in your “Promissory Abstract” and “Working Bibliography”.

   🎬The Split Horn:
   The Life of a Hmong Shaman in America 🎬
   (58 min.)
   UMD Kanopy On-line Link:
   "The Split Horn"
This week we venture to Appleton, Wisconsin, to visit the daily and spiritual worlds of a Hmong shaman and his family. Chai Thao is the daughter of a Hmong shaman who lives in Appleton, Wisconsin. Chai will tell us about her father Paja, and about how her family and people arrived in Appleton from Laos. She’ll tell us about how her father, a Hmong shaman, struggles to maintain his ancient traditions as she and her twelve brothers and sisters embrace American culture.

"Chai . . . is caught between the richly traditional world of her parents and the complicated life of a typical American teenager. As the film's narrator, Chai shows . . . the collision of cultures taking place in her house and in the Hmong-American community." (PBS)

It is a collision common in America as the Culture and Personality of the adults of immigrant cultures collides with the emerging Culture and Personality of hyphenated-American teenagers.

"The Split Horn . . . captures the daily struggle of a family caught between two worlds and examines the intergenerational rift between immigrant parents desperate to maintain their ancient traditions while their children embrace American lifestyles."

"For over 17 years since the family arrived in America, filmmaker Taggart Siegel has chronicled the intimate and private lives of Paja Thao, his wife and their 13 children. The Split Horn focuses on Paja, a shaman whose spiritual leadership plays a vital role in Appleton's Hmong community. He ministers to the physical and spiritual needs of friends and family with elaborate rituals that bridge the natural and spirit worlds. As his children grow up, however, they are losing touch with their father's ancient traditions. In a pivotal scene, Paja, wearing a black veil, dances on a wooden bench, shaking and chanting in an ecstatic trance. Across the room, three of his children lounge on the sofa, transfixed by The Simpsons and MTV, ignoring the ancient spirit battle played out by their father."

"A year of sadness leads Paja to conduct a ceremony for his family during which he discovers that his own soul has strayed from his body. He spirals into a depression, unable to heal himself or others. The community, worried by Paja's depression, asks two shaman friends to lead a healing ceremony for him. The Thao children come together, putting aside their religious differences to support their father and mother. One of the older sons, Koualy, returns to Hmong tradition after 14 years and helps his father with the ceremony. Paja beams with joy and renewed strength." (PBS)

Readers of Anne Fadiman’s best-selling popular work The Spirit Catches You and You Fall Down (NY: Farrar, Strauss and Giroux, 1997) will recognize several recurring psychological themes in the intercultural conflict. . . .

8. Your Project Abstract and Working Bibliography is Due this Week

Your class Project is a short “work-in-progress” presentation,

\textit{Demosthenes Practising Oratory} (1870) \hspace{1cm} \textit{Charles Dickens} (1842)

\textbf{Details of Presentation} \hspace{1cm} \textbf{Details of Term Paper} plus your Term Paper.

Details are at <http://www.d.umn.edu/cla/faculty/troufs/anth1095/gcproject.html#title>.

Keep in mind that your project should be about something that you personally are interested in. So start there, and we’ll work the details out from there. This Project is something with which you should be able to have fun.

Your “Promissory Abstract” and “Working Bibliography” for your Project are due by the end of the week, Friday, 3 July 2020. Basically that’s a short formal statement (like an executive summary) of what you are planning to do, and 3-5 resources you are thinking about using.

Complete abstract information is available at . . .
