GENERAL COMMENTS FOR THE WEEK . . .

Since the Midterm Exam we have been looking at “How People Get Their Food in Industrial Societies”. One also needs to ask the question, “And what do they do with food when they get it”?

In answer to the latter question, we’ll visit one of the great Food Fights of the world . . . La Tomatina in Buñol, Valencia, Spain. . . .

And with reference to the first question, we’ll see the daily fight agricultural laborers endure to put food on our tables. In the film Under Contract we’ll see how the process of meat production—now often called “chickenizing” after practices established in the U.S.A. chicken industry—continue to marginalize agricultural workers around the world.

And in Eating Culture we’ll have a look at “Leftovers to Takeaway.”

We’ll close the week off with a good discussion on bananas, and coffee, vanilla, saffron, and cashews. . . .

(Speaking of cashews, did you know cashews are not nuts? And they’re poisonous? Check out Trivia #1 for this week.)

(optional) LIVE CHAT: MIDTERM EXAM / OFFICE HOURS . . .

Siena Chrisman, RAFI-USA (PDF)

“For the first time in a full-length documentary, contract farmers tell their stories and industry experts reveal how the corporate production model pits farmer against farmer. Under Contract: Farmers and the Fine Print takes audiences on a road trip across the American South and to Southern India to understand what’s happening to farmers living under contract and what we can do to change our food system for the better.”

“The story of the contract farmer is the story of what’s changing in rural America. Power in agriculture is changing hands, but few people know what’s happening to the farmers producing our food. Under Contract tells this story through the lens of global poultry farming. In the U.S. alone, 97% of the chicken produced is raised by family farmers under contract with large companies. Around the world and all across agriculture, contract farming is taking hold. But farmers who sign contracts often face unfair challenges and hidden risks under the terms that are offered by large firms. Under Contract provides a timely glimpse into the little understood fine print of modern agriculture.”

Generally it is a good idea to pretty much finish at least a draft your paper before you do too much work on your presentation (your presentation is basically a preliminary report on your work-in-progress paper).
