GENERAL COMMENTS FOR THE WEEK ...

Wrapping it All Up

This week we wrap up the course, except, of course, for the Final Exam which will be available Monday-Friday, 13-17 December 2021.

This will be a royal week.

First we get to see the crown jewels of the semester—your Presentations.

Then we get to hear what that famous organic farmer HRH Prince Charles has to say about The Future of Food in a “Landmark Speech” at Georgetown University in Washington, DC.

And we’ll check [again] with The Food and Agriculture Organization) of the United Nations (FAO) to see if the Prince is correct about what’s happening with world water and food, and food waste.

And we close the week off discussing Food and Art and Food as Art.

This week have a listen to what HRH Prince Charles has to say about the future of food. . . .

The Prince has mentioned that after he becomes King he will no longer be opining on matters such as this, so pay careful attention.

Rodale Books . . . His Royal Highness Prince Charles's Landmark Speech "On the Future of Food" -- NY (14 February 2012)

And what will the future bring for food? It's hard to say, except, perhaps, for the views of some notable folks on The Future of Food, and a few other items related to class this week.

Even Napoleon in all his greatness could not have imagined the food world you live in. (It was only a little over two hundred years ago, in 1810, that Nicholas Appert discovered the process of preserving food by canning—for Napoleon's army.)

And for that matter, your grandparents couldn't have imagined your food world. Even a casual reading of Jean Anderson's The American Century Cookbook (NY: Potter, 1997) will reveal lots of food innovations that have happened in your lifetime (the timeline of food events in this book is one of the best compilations on twentieth-century food events in print—personal opinion).

And speaking of your grandparents, there is no end to Michael Pollan's Food Rule #2:

“Eat nothing your grandmother wouldn't recognize as food.”

REM: Please Complete the Online Course Evaluation (if You have Not Yet Done It)

Course Survey

(from ITSS)

If you haven't already done so, please take time to step back and reflect on the semester, and make some suggestions for next time around. We ask you to reflect on the course itself, and tell us what you think by evaluating the course and its parts. Please take time to respond. Your responses are very useful and helpful to us, and to the operations of the Department and University. We look to you for suggestions for improvement in the future, and various administrators look to and at the results for program and performance evaluations and for the future planning of course offerings. Course evaluations are one of the few places where you can have a real influence on how the University operates in the future.

The Information Technology Systems & Services (ITSS) sent you an Invitation to Participate in an Online Course Evaluation.

Evaluations are important to me, the Department Head, and the Dean, as well as everyone in our Department.

Please fill the online Course Evaluation out carefully.

Evaluations are anonymous, and will not be seen by the instructor until final grades for this course have been recorded.

Thanks,

Tim Roufs

DUE: DISCUSSION WEEK 15 . . .

Picturing Food Waste

Pichler writes in his project statement:

"The immediate idea behind this series was to picture food products at different stages of decay in order to highlight the issue of food waste. This waste is strongly linked to the culture industry and therefore also to people's ways of life, especially in industrial nations. In the photographs, this is made obvious through the combination of food with accessories of the culture industry focused around food (e.g. dishes, cutlery). Therefore, the pictured food items are portrayed as part of a European culinary culture and history. This culture is closely intertwined with the history of exploitation of European colonies and, as a result, the import of cheap food products from other continents."
