GENERAL COMMENTS FOR THE WEEK . . .

Something's fishy this week. And this week we'll see how, in In Organics We Trust and in our discussion on American Indian and Alaskan Native fishing and whaling rights.

And it's time to see the fruits of your research labors, and to see what you have in store for the final exam.

Your Term Paper and your Question for the Final Exam are due this week

And we'll also again contemplate those debates that have puzzled folks for at least two thousand years—as they pertain to food.

Dessert this week is chocolate, more specifically the European Union “Chocolate War” that lasted decades. This was a different sort of “Food Fight” than we saw in Week 9 . . .

In more recent days they have also had “The Sausage War” . . .

The friendly folks from the UM Office of Measurement Services will be sending you an Invitation and Reminder to Participate in an online Course Evaluation.

Evaluations are important to me, the Department Head, and the Dean, as well as everyone in our Department.

Please fill out the online Student Rating of Teaching (SRT) carefully.

Evaluations are anonymous and will not be seen by the instructor until final grades for this course have been recorded, and then only aggregate information from the entire class will be passed onto the faculty member.

Your input will help improve this course.

Thanks,

Tim Roufs

As I mentioned last week and throughout the semester a major part of this course is your research project—not just for the points, but because researching a topic you are interested in, and presenting your findings to others, and then writing the results up as a formal paper, is one of the best ways to learn things, and it gives you valuable practice for presenting your ideas and arguments.
