1.0 What's Happening Week 2?

I hope your first week with the Anthropology of Europe went well, and that your efforts “up until so far” have been enjoyable, and that you are liking the readings and other materials.

Remember that if in the current difficult and unusual times you find yourself in a situation where you need more time, or other assistance, to complete any of the materials of this course, or for any other reason, please let me know privately and I and the University of Minnesota will do whatever we can to accommodate your situation(s). Do not be afraid to ask; we are here to help in whatever way we can.

Now would be a good time to have a look at the overall organization of the course. Have a look at . . .

The Course: Part I

Anthropology graduates, reflecting back on their time with us at UMD, suggested in our surveys that it would be a good idea to tie the individual courses in the Anthropology curriculum together a little more. So that's what we're going to do for much of the next three or four weeks, after we finish the Orientation and Introduction.

This will also help set the basic analytic, theoretical, and historical framework for the course. This material should provide you with the background and analytical tools to help you with your class Project, and help you begin to make sense out of the topics that follow later in the course—a good deal of which will be provided via video—and towards the end of the semester with your class presentations.

... this week we visit the villagers of Kypseli, on the island of Santorini (aka Thera) in Greece. The film, Kypseli: Women and Men Apart—A Divided Reality is a truly classic film in Anthropology (and Women's and Gender Studies), and as such it represents the "ethnographic present"—a practice in anthropology of sometimes treating things in whatever time or past era as if they were that way today.

Obviously, since the filming of Kypseli things have changed. In the slides I will talk a little about the changes in Kypseli and in the other Greek villages that we will have a look at in the coming weeks, after you have written your first impressions down for the first part of your Kypseli Case Study.

For the present, treat Kypseli in the "ethnographic present"—we'll look at the "real" present and the future in the future.

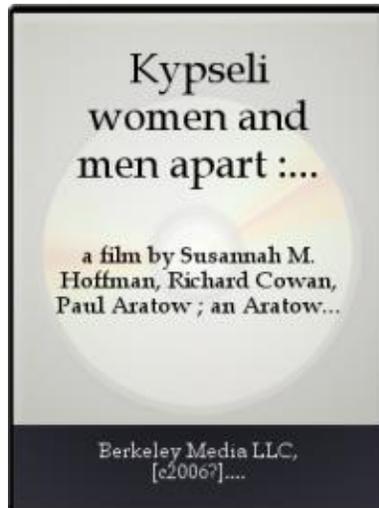

You might find the following resources helpful for working on your Kypseli Case Study:

Kypseli is a “master text” . . .

Kypseli: Women and Men Apart—A Divided Reality is an "ETIC" film—that is one that is viewed from the perspective of an outsider (in this case, anthropologist Susan Hoffmann). Next week we will have a look at an "EMIC" view of a Greek Village from the perspective of an insider (in this case the anthropologist filmmaker Peter Loizos, a member of the family): Life Chances: Four Families in [Argaki]a Changing [Greek] Cypriot Village [\[L\]](#) (39 min., 1974, UM DULUTH Martin Library Video Cassette VC 4926)

Self-Assessment

This week please take a short survey to give us an idea of what your views and takes are on the Anthropology of Europe. Once everyone has completed this feedback, everyone will be able to see the results.

Before you get deep into the course, briefly describe your experiences with and ideas about the Anthropology of Europe, and what you already know about things related to Europe in general.

At different points during the semester we will return to these questions to have a look at the various subjects.

Be sure to check the details of the activities and assignments of the week in your  canvas folder. With the Week 1 Discussions and Activities, for e.g., we'd like to find out a little bit about your background and thoughts on European topics. . . .
